Thomas More College
Student Disclosure of Vaccination

The State of Kentucky requires Thomas More College to educate all residential students regarding Meningococcal Meningitis and the available vaccines. It is NOT a requirement that you have the vaccination to reside in the residence halls. However, the vaccine is highly recommended by the American Academy of Pediatrics, the AMA and the American College Health Association.

Meningococcal meningitis disease is a potentially fatal infectious and contagious bacterial disease that can be spread by coughing and sharing drinking glasses or other personal items.

College freshman residing on campus in dormitories or residence halls have a risk of Meningococcal meningitis disease over seven times higher than do college students overall.

I have received the Meningococcal Meningitis Vaccine Information Sheet and my questions have been answered. ________

At this time I choose to:

__________ receive the vaccine from my personal physician.

__________ decline the vaccine at this time. I know I may change my mind and request the vaccine at any time.

Or

__________ I have already received the vaccine and will provide documentation.

__________________________________________________________________

Student Name: ______________________________________________

Student ID #____________________

Date of Vaccination: Month: __________ Year: __________

Student Signature: ___________________________________________

Date: ________________